Gameplay The gameplay is quite similar to the original Hydro Thunder, as well as the sequel Hydro Thunder Hurricane, and consists of racing a boat down a racecourse, racing against other boats, completing water-based activities, and completing optional challenges. There are twelve of these water-based activities, with only two of them being the same as Hydro Thunder (the Mini-Racer challenge and the Mammoth challenge). The rest are new, including big hydroplane racing, a hydro-diving challenge, diving down for gold, ice diving, a huge surfing competition, a 'slim-down' challenge, the Racer's Revenge, an underwater breakdancing competition, a monkey-wrench challenge, and another underwater football challenge. Each of the nine boats can be customized with different hulls, fins, winches, spoilers, and driver outfits, and has different stats like top speed, overall stats, and a special stat called "Spins". Players can also create their own, which can be done through the Custom Boat feature in the Edit Menu. The boats can be customized with different winches, spoilers, and (in later boats) different hulls. Players can also customize their driver outfits, and later models can be driven underwater. Each boat has a unique machine gun, but also three different iron sights (the standard, a zoom, and a zoom with autofire). The boats also feature three different reloads (100, 200, and 300) and can be upgraded through the "Crew" feature, which is done by purchasing parts with coins, which are earned through the races. The upgrades are for the speed of the boat (1, 2, 3, 4, and 5), top speed (1, 2, and 3), acceleration (1, 2, and 3), turning (1, 2, and 3), steering (1, 2, and 3), ability to climb over the other boats (1, 2, and 3), autofire (1, 2, and 3), and damage (1, 2, 3, 4, and 5). The boats start with a class rating of (1-9), as is the case with all boat racing games. The ratings decrease as they are driven, with a boat being torn apart if it starts to lose all its parts. The boat can have up to three parts, which can be reinforced through a crew member (first available in the boat "Titan", the second available in the boat "
