

Gearing up Health-RI to accelerate practice changing health research and innovation

Health-RI is a public-private partnership of organizations involved in health research and care, endorsed by more than 70 partners in the Netherlands. Its mission is to build and provide an integrated health data research infrastructure that is accessible for researchers, citizens and care providers.

This will facilitate and foster the optimal use of knowledge, tools, facilities, health data and samples to enable a learning healthcare system and accelerate sustainable and affordable personalized medicine and health. With the recently granted National Growth Fund funding, Health-RI is now gearing up to accelerate practice changing health research and innovation.