You can buy them in most small shops. 2 Remove the cover. It should be caught or pulled, but you can also use pliers. 3 Set the wheel. Turn the gearing wheel completely to the plus side (usually on the right). [1] 4 Turn it back to the left. Lift the card so that it does not touch the wheel and turn the tab all the way to the left. 5 Move on and repeat. You can do this several times to increase it as much as possible. [2] 6 Turn it on. Watch out. You should get a 3+ flame. You can edit as needed. 7 Increase the flame. Take it to the notch by spraying the WD-40 or the engine flame saher. Keep away from both the body and other people and combustible objects. That's going to be a huge flame. [3] 1 Rubber bands Place two rubber bands around the aerosol can. You can use an axe can, hairspray, anything. 2 Place the holder. Place the wall mount (which should already be bent to a 90 degree angle) under the rubber bands so that it is held on a baking sheet somewhat securely. 3 Get a sticky surface. Break off a little bit of that plastic-so and put it on the bottom of the candle (you can also use a lighter). Alternatively, you can use gum. 4 Attach it to the holder. Attach the candle to the wall bracket using plastic-so or other sticky fabric. [4] 5 Adjust as necessary. Order the candle wick with the tip of the sprayer on the aerosol plate. 6 Light a candle. Watch out. 7 Spray. Don't spray flammable on anything. Watch out. 1 Get a high-quality water gun. It should be able to create and maintain pressure well, be made of high-quality plastic and hold a good amount of liquid. [5] 2 Get a metal holder. You will need a metal holder, either flat or L holder, depending on the gun purchased. Connect the holder to the gun so that the flat metal goes out parallel to the ground, about 1 under the nozzle. 3 Pack the gun. Wrap the gun around the nozzle with a wrap so that it is only exposed to the open (and exposed as little as possible). This will help prevent the weapon from melting. 4 Fill the gun. liquid tank into the lighter. [6] 5 Connect the candle. Attach the candle to the end of the holder. You can use cheap, chewing gum, or anything that is not glue. 6 Light a candle. Light the candle by the preferred method. 7 Fire on the gun. Don't forget to pump it up first. Add a new question Question What is the legal status of these improvised flamethrowers? Flamethrowers are legal in most of the U.S., they only have some regulations in California. Be reasonable, because throwing them at people, animals or dry vegetation is not legal, and you get into big trouble if you hurt someone or damage the environment and cause a loss of property. Q How do I prevent a flame from getting into the fuel tank? Burn it in shorter bursts, if it crawls downstream, stop shooting for a while. Question Is it okay to use gasoline to make a flamethrower? If you can atomize fuel (make a fine mist), then kerosene or diesel would be better. Gasoline is more flammable and more suitable to climb back into the fuel tank. Question Is there a way to get the middle burn to come out in the bay? Yes, use something like Hot Shot or any wasp/hornet spray. This will be a huge 10-15ft flame. Q If the fuel supply is slowed down, can't the flame get into the fuel chamber and cause an explosion? Cha You need a nice mixture of fuel and oxygen to keep the flame going, and you have some way to remove carbon dioxide. In most cases, the nozzle is so small in diameter that the flame goes out on its own due to carbon dioxide. Q Are flame plasters legal to use on private land as long as I do not harm others or the environment? Yes, they are. The question I've heard is that hairspray has a greater risk of exploding or injuring. What's safer? Body spray is good. Just make sure you throw it away when you're done or it could explode. Question Are fumes poisonous? Fumes may not be poisonous, but they can be dangerous to your health when inhaled. Q Are flamethrowers legal in Texas? It's legal to own a flamethrower in Texas and many other states. Question I could repaint a water pistol so it looks less cartoony? You could, but keep in mind that the kids were killed by the police, who mistook guns to play with the real thing, so you should be very careful where you play with it.
