Easter eggs are hidden features or messages, internal jokes and cultural references inserted in the media. They are often well hidden, so users find it nice when they discover them, helping to form connections between their creators and search. Google employees are encouraged to use 20% of their time for projects of personal interest, and Easter eggs are sometimes created during this. Google avoids adding Easter eggs to popular search pages because they don't want to have a negative impact on usability. The Easter Egg in Google Maps warned users who ask to go from Shire to Mordor that they should use caution you shouldn't just go to Mordor. On Mario Day (March 10) 2018, Google and Nintendo collaborated to bring Mario to the Google Maps mobile app worldwide for a week. At the bottom of the direction page, next to the launch navigation button, will run a yellow icon with a question mark. Clicking on the icon will allow the user to have Mario and his cards as a navigation arrow. Hitting the icon 100 times will activate the 1-UP sound like in Nintendo games. The search for the Ericksen Rift is leading for a point on the street track of the Azerbaijan Grand Prix. This is a reference to a report by Romain Grosjean in which he said that Marcus Ericsson hit him, although he crashed himself during the 40th lap of the 2018 Azerbaijan Grand Prix. (quote needed) Pegman Additional information: Google Street View and Pegman If the user moves to Loch Ness (see it), the lake can be seen from the street's perspective and Pegman looks like a Loch Ness monster. He is given special clothes for some widely observed special occasions: he goes to Halloween on Valentine's Day it stands on the heart, and during Christmas week, he becomes a snowman and on some hashtags like the hashtag #peldireforeveryone he gets a certain object that looks like a rainbow cloak. Around February 8, the day of the launch of Google Maps, he looks dressed as a birthday cake. While watching past street views, he once turned into Emmett Doc Brown, one of the main characters in the Back to the Future universe. When he is drawn into Legoland in Carlsbad, Pegman turns into a Lego minifigure. When he is drawn to Street View in Sun Valley, Idaho, he becomes a skier. On election day, Pegman wears Uncle Sam's hat and I voted button. When dragged in the vicinity of Arthur Ashe Stadium, (see his) Flushing Meadows-Corona Park, Pegman becomes a tennis player holding a racket. When dragged near the Kennedy Space Center, (see him) Pegman becomes an astronaut. When dragging Pegman around grom lake in Nevada (see him) or Area 51, (see him) it will turn into a UFO. When viewing some royal residences such as Buckingham Palace (see it) (and surrounding palaces), the Palace of Holyroodhouse (see it) and Hillsborough Castle (see it), Pegman transforms into a representation of queen Elizabeth II, PegMa'am. When dragged to Hawaii (see him) or Florida (see him), Pegman becomes a mermaid, but only when close to the ocean. The figure comes back if you drag too far inland. The drag of Google Street View Pegman on Telegraph Avenue in Berkeley, California used to display it with a tie-stained shirt. At the southern point of Crescent Island, Antartica, there is a place with blue roads. When Pegman was dragged to this place, Pegman turned into a penguin, and users could explore the area as on the roads. Penguins and a research team in red parks can be seen at various points on these roads. For the release of Star Wars: The Force Awakens, Pegman was a stormtrooper or X-wing fighter pilot on Google Maps. For the release of the video game The Legend of zelda: The Twilight Princess HD for the Wii U, Pegman was Link holding the Master Sword and the Gulyian Shield. For the 10th anniversary of Google Street View, Pegman appears on Maps and Street View as if he were celebrating his birthday, wearing a red and white striped miniature party hat and holding three pastel purple, pink and blue balloons in his right hand. Google Translates more information: Google Translate On Monday, November 29, 2010 Reddit user harhrr posted details on how to make a Google beatrix for you!, and soon after, Robert quigley reported the discovery in an article on geokosystem.com (now Map My Site), stating that he was not sure that it falls into the category of Easter egg or smart manipulation, and that although he didn't know why, that's what Google Translate translate the stupidity of the text of all consonants with German to German and clicking Listen will lead to a machine generated by a speech that sounded like beatboxing. As time went on, redditors and other stakeholders experimented with translating combinations, posting their results on sites including Hacker News, where a reader iamdade reportedly posted a fairly comprehensive Google Translate beatboxing guide. Three years later, Time magazine published an article stating that Google recognized the existence of this feature with the Beatrix Easter egg when it hovered over the speaker icon button after setting it up in accordance with the aforementioned specification. When using Google Translate to translate the German version of The Funniest Joke in the World (Wenn ist das Nunst'ck git und Slotermeyer?? Ja! Beiherhund das Oder die Flipperwaldt gersput! Android Extra info: Android (operating system) Android Easter Eggs C version 2.3 (Gingerbread) operating system Android from Google Easter Egg was hidden. The Easter Egg can be obtained through the Settings app in the Phone's About section by repeatedly clicking on the Android version section. The animation is different in each version of the OS. At 3.0 - 3.2.6 (Honeycomb) there is a blue bee. Underneath it, there is the text of THE RES... as a reference to Tross Legacy, (quote is needed) At 4.0 - OS (Ice Cream Sandwich) there is a pixel art ice cream sandwich animation. Prolonged pressing this will cause many androids of the ice cream sandwich to fly across the screen, dubbed nyan droids, as they are a tribute to the Nyan Cat. (quote is necessary) In 4.1 - 4.3.1 (Jelly Bean) there is a red jelly, which when pressed will show its face along with the 4.0 version. If it's jelly beans then a long-pressed, interactive jelly bean mini-game will appear. This is where you can throw jelly beans around. (quote necessary) In 4.4 (KitKat) there is a rotating letter K, which at constant click turns into Android text in the styling of the KitKat logo. If the Android logo is then pressed with a long press or twisted two-finger tie interface, known as the Dream is called Dessert Affair, is loaded with icons from all previous versions of Android. This seems to be a mock-up of the Windows Phone interface. In 5.x (Lollipop) and 6.x (Marshmallow), there is a color circle (or circle with a stylized M inside in Marshmallow). If constantly tapped, it will turn into a lollipop with the text of a lollipop inside (or M changes to marshmallow in 6.x). Clicking on the circle changes color. With a long press, floppy bird starts with an Android mascot instead. In Marshmallow, clicking the plus sign adds additional players (up to five) that can be controlled by the user or other players. At 7.0 (Nougat) there is an N that will allow the use of another Easter egg. This Easter Egg, called Android Neko as a reference to the cat collecting mobile game Neko Atsume, can be accessed from the Fast Settings menu, and allows the user to create virtual treats that eventually Kittens. Kittens can be seen on the screen in the style of the gallery. In addition, a long press on the aforementioned N will repeatedly alternate between displaying a character without a character and emojis with a cat's face, respectively, toggling the Easter egg and off. No and the cat is nondrengren for nouga there. At 8.0 (Oreo), instead of the usual way to go to the Easter egg, heading to The System of the About Phone and clicking on the Android version will repeatedly launch the Easter Egg. An orange circle appears representing O for Oreo. A long press on the center will open a blue screen, representing the sea with floating around the octopus. O's octopus represents Oreo while eight feet per octopus represent the version (8.0). The octopus can be moved by dragging its head around. At 9.0 (Pie) the Easter Egg can be found by stopping by driving to The System of Android and then tapping three times on the Android version on the next screen. Then there will be a white, extended P, usually with concentric colored circles disappearing into P. Every time an Easter egg is called, it displays different colors. The animation can be pinched to zoom in. Google Pixel phones (which work 9.0 Pie) by clicking on the P icon several times, you'll see a drawing app. Rotation 1 and merging with the number 0 will lead to the text android and. In this state, clicking on I several times will show a nongram game where the resulting photos are different Android emojis. Spells can be cast on an Android phone by saying Ok Google and then Lumos or Nox to turn the flashlight on and off, or Silencio to silence the bell ringer and notifications. Android apps in the Google Play Games app, if the player swipes the Konami code, there will be a box with three buttons - B, A and A, Click B, then A opens a secret achievement called All your games belong to us, a link to the well-known phrase All your bases belong to us. In the Google Allo app, sending Konami code to a Google assistant typing up down from left to right b a start will answer Cheat enabled mode. Putting it back will respond with random statements that are transferred to the code. The (quote is needed) The Google Phone (Dialer) app, entering the Emergency number 0118 999 881 999 119 725 3, advertised to replace 999 in i Crowd saved 1 episode of Calamity Jean, will cause the phone to vibrate and call the flashing blue and red. The feature is supported to work in the Android Marshmallow and Android Nougat warehouse 137 138 139 139 , and is still present on Oreo devices (8.1). Google, if your device shakes while viewing a photo, it's going to snow, if the device is shaken again it will animate GIF images with falling snow in the photo catalog. A search for let's go carol or let's go carol on Google Now will result in an additional map that displays a list of Christmas carols. The phone will play music and show words if one of them is selected. On YouTube Creator Studio, swiping down the screen repeatedly shows the cat at the top of the screen. Putting the spreadsheet on the Google Chrome App and swipes on the tab five times will cause the tab to do somersaults. Opening more than 99 tabs on Google Chrome App will result in 'd' displayed instead of the number of tabs open. Clicking on the dinosaur, which shows if The Google Chrome App is unable to connect to the Internet, will start jumping and running around the game. In a video posted by Numbuh16 on June 22, 2012, titled Why Do YouTube Views Freeze on 301? (see it), the number of views was frozen at 301, citing an error in the now-changed topic of behavior. Adding to the URL, the video will be used as a Wadsworth constant, skipping the first 30% of the video. When watching any video, typing amazing makes the progress of the bar and other elements of the player flash multicolored. Entering amazing again stops him. YouTube robots.txt file on www.youtube.com/robots.txt (see it) claims that it was created in the distant future (in 2000) after a robotic uprising in the mid-1990s that wiped out all humans. This is an imaginary reference to the song Robots flight of the Conchords. When the live countdown reaches 24 hours before it is due to begin, Last Day's Dawn -24 Hours of Remain- is shown along with the sound effect, referring to the video game The Legend of zelda: Mask of The Majors. On December 12, 2015, as part of the celebration of the release of Star Wars: The Force Awakens, the progress bar was changed to look like a lightsaber. By subscribing to a specially created page, users were able to follow Light Side (which will change the bar of progress to blue) or Dark Side (which will change the bar of progress to red). Account users were able to return the effect to normal. Google disabled it for all users on February 1, 2016. Along with this, the mouse over volume control will play the lightsaber sound as it was turned on and mousing off it will play From the sound. (quote is necessary) Game Snake can be activated in adobe Flash player by clicking on a combination of arrow keys, while videos have been suspended or playable. Once started, the snake can be controlled by further using the arrow keys, directing it to gobble up the dots to increase its size. If the snake hit the edges of the video box, the game is over. The feature no longer works with the HTML5 player. When watching a video with a fidget spinner in the title, the buffering icon will change into a spinning fidget spinner. The Fidget Spinner, which replaces the buffering icon title video Too Many Cats (see it), is a surreal dark comedy short of Adult Swim, yellow and in Georgia font, mimicking the theme of the video. (quote necessary) Search YouTube search: Beam me Scotty, a link to Star Trek, will result in search results beaming down on the screen, as in Star Trek. Dog Meme changes the font on the search result page to the pastel colors of Comic Sans, typical of the Doge meme. Do Harlem shake will lead to the song Harlem Shake will play, and the results will dance. Using Luke's Force results levitate as if the Force were mentioned in Star Wars. Webdriver torso will return the results, but with a red background and a blue rectangle around some of the videos. It also says: aqua.flv - Slide 0000-9 in the bottom left corner of the page. This Easter egg is a reference to the mystery of Webdriver Torso. Google has confirmed that it is behind the Webdriver Torso mystery: This is one of the many test channels used by YouTube to ensure the quality of the videos. Chrome Extra Info: Google Chrome Lonely T-Rex If a user tries to browse when offline, the message shows that they are not connected to the Internet. At the top is an illustration of the dinosaur Lonely T-Rex developed by Sebastian Gabriel. Since September 2014, Clicking on the dinosaur (in Android or iOS) or tapping space (on desktop) launches a browser game known as the dinosaur game in which the player controls a running dinosaur by tapping the screen (in Android or iOS) or tapping space, or q (desktop) to avoid obstacles including cacti and, since June 2015, pterodactyls. In 2016, another feature was added to the game. When a player reaches 700 points, the game begins to switch between day (white background, black lines and shapes) and at night (black background, white lines and shapes). In September 2018, for the 10th anniversary of Google Chrome, a birthday cake was added, forcing a dinosaur to wear a hat for his birthday. Reaching 900 points will switch the color scheme to the day, and switching back and forth will take place at subsequent milestones. The game is also available on the chrome://network-error-106 and pages of verification. The game code is available on the Chromium website. If the computer administrator disables the game of dinosaurs when the player tries to play the game, he will receive an error message with a photo of a meteor, unsparmed after the dinosaur said that the administrator of that computer turned off the game dinosaurs. In Google Glass, clicking Settings - the device's information - to view licenses and then clicking on the touchpad 9 times, will show the Tap Meet Team option. Clicking again will show a photo of the Google Glass development team. Any photo with Christmas lights uploaded to Google will be turned into an animated GIF showing sparkling lights. In the Google Play Store, clicking the search button with an empty search box will look for unicorns. In Google's iPhone and iPod touch search app, swiping down (in the past about) repeatedly in the Settings interface brings up a hidden menu item called bells and whistles that allows you to customize colors, sounds and more in the app. However, this no longer works as new apps are updated.
