This time it is Hummel, a German self-propelled howitzer (SPH) created by installing a 15cm sFH 18 L/30 howitzer on a Panzer IV chassis. Sd.Kfz.165 Hummel has been produced since the end of 1942 because of an urgent artillery need that could keep up with Germany’s panzers. His combat debut occurred during the Titanic Battle of Kursk. With Nashorn so recently receiving neo tracks, it makes sense that his close partner Hummel should do so too. These pieces come with pre-assembled straight runs, if any, and they can realistically be sagged and hand-shaped. Other parts come as individual links to allow them to conform perfectly to the form of sprockets, etc. Engineering is top notch. The 15cm howitzer, which is fully seen inside the open-topped battle compartment, is resplendissant in rich detail, just like the rest of the interior. There are even photo-engraved pieces available to take detail to the next level. A welcome sight, this bumblebee comes right on the tail of a neo-shod rhinoceros! Barcode: 0 89195 87626 3 Box Size: 7.5 x 11.4 x 1.8 Packaging: 36 pieces per Dragon master box reached a milestone by introducing NEO TRACK in 1/72 scale Armor Pro range for the first time. The lucky recipient is an exact interpretation of the Nashorn. These track links provide the perfect balance between precision and assembly. They come with pre-assembled straight runs of pieces, for example, while they can also be realistically sagged. Other parts come as individual links, if any, to get them to conform to the form of sprockets, etc. The actual kit is based on a 1/72 Nashorn scale already released in Armor Pro from Dragon. Of course, this means that all details are presented accurately, including very detailed and visible 88mm long pipe gun mounted on top of the body inside the open combat compartment. In the kit box there is also a generous selection of photo-engraved pieces that allow modelers to update the look of this powerful German tanks. Thanks to the addition of these Neo pieces, this little rhino has become even more attractive! HOME -- Dragon Plastic Model Kits -- 1/72 Military -- 7498 1/72 Pj.Kpfw.IV Ausf.J Mid Production Barcode: 0 89195 87498 6 Box Size: 7. J 5 x 11.4 x 1.8 Packaging: 36 pieces per master box This Dragon Armor Pro 1/72 scale kit representing a Dz.Kpfw.IV Ausf.J Mid-Production tank possesses the final level of In addition, it is the first time for Dragon fans to get their hands on an Ausf.J kit in this scale. In most respects, Ausf.J was a retrograde from a previously produced Ausf.H, a necessity imposed on Germany to simplify and accelerate production as the war progressed. For example, there was no electric generator for crossing the turret, so the turret had to be rotated manually. Thus, it has a series of new tracks to allow precise playback of this type. For example, the turret, lower coca and exhaust drum that suppresses the flame are all new tools. All details are clearly molded, including armor skirts for turret and coca. The number of parts to be assembled has been reduced to a minimum too, so the modelers will be able to enjoy the construction of this Panzer IV Ausf.J more than ever. The artwork on top of the box is absolutely stunning too. Now, small-scale modelers can finally accurately recreate a German Late War-era German Dz.Kpfw.IV. Sturmartellerie was a concept proposed by Colonel Erich von Manstein in 1935 to accompany the infantry in attack, and stuG III was easier, cheaper and faster to assemble than the equivalent Panzer III tank. A large number of people were manufactured with Ausf. G being the final version to leave the factory floors. Interestingly, four StuG III Ausf. Gs could be produced for the cost of a single Tiger King. The Ausf. G went into production in December 1942 and was manufactured until almost the end of World War II, with 7,893 examples completed. Dragon has revolutionized 1/72 scale StuG.III kits with the launch of this new Ausf.G early production version. In 2006, Dragon launched a 1/35 scale kit of the same vehicle (Article 6320) and became an instant favorite among modelers around the world. This was given the extremely high level of technology invested in this kit by its creators and engineers, and that was also based on extremely thorough research. Now, using this accumulated knowledge and expertise, Dragon offers a StuG.III Ausf.G counterpart in smaller scale 1/72. Slide molds are widely used in the production of this kit, which means it has extremely precise details. Not only that, but the kit boasts a very clever breakdown of parts that require a smaller number of pieces to put together. The assembly is considerably facilitated, and here the epithet of less is more is very apt. Dragon thus ensures maximum joy as modelers assemble their high quality StuG.III without any tedium. Dragon’s StuG III has entered a new size 1/72! eBay item number:114449435733 The seller assumes full responsibility for this listing.
