New Book Teaches Children About Courage, Bravery in the Midst of Pandemic

Tallahassee, FL—While many children have big dreams, Arty has big muscles and big dreams! In 2010, God showed a six-year-old in his dream what would become known in 2020 as the COVID-19 pandemic, when people were mandated to stay in their homes to avoid the “invisible monster!” On an adventurous mission to save his city from “monsters” who have forced people of all ages to stay inside their homes, Arty encounters a white dove in his dream that gives him a supernatural power like no other. As a courageous, brave little boy, Arty goes after the “monsters” with his colorful ball, cape and mask—ready to defeat the monsters once and for all. But can one little boy with a ball, a cape and a mask complete a man-sized job?

When authors Angie L. Keaton Wiggins and Cheryl Keaton-Griffin drafted this literary masterpiece, little did they know that, a month later, the world would announce the international pandemic known as COVID-19. In addition to teaching children how to use their “superpowers” from Holy Spirit, they are also encouraged to use the power of art and colors to transform their dreams into a tangible reality. While some superheroes are content with saving the day, Arty is intentional about saving his city from the “monsters” that people of all ages fear.

Join the authors for the official book launch party on Saturday, November 5 at 11 a.m. at ALARM International Ministries Fellowship Hall, 2532 W. Tharpe Street, Tallahassee, FL 32303. For media interviews or bulk book orders, email Dreams@ArtySavesHisCity.com or call 850.270.8928. Readers of all ages can also order copies here.

About the Authors

Angie L. Keaton Wiggins

As a former local radio personality, Ministry leader, entrepreneur and author, Angie L. Keaton Wiggins seeks to inspire and empower others to continually grow in grace and in God. Featured on Preach the Word Worldwide Network TV and Atlanta's 57 WATC Live TV, Angie published her first book in 2019, entitled Spinderella: He Turned IT. Affectionately known as "The Rhyming Prophet" to many, her unique ability to open the eyes and ears of others in the room sets her apart from the rest. Most passionate about being the Lord's mouthpiece, Angie has hosted conferences and summits and received countless awards and accolades, making her a highly sought-after speaker, coach and mentor. For booking, speaking engagements or interviews, call 850.270.8928 or visit ArtySavesHisCity.com.

Cheryl Keaton-Griffin

As Arty's mother (in the book and in real life), Cheryl Keaton-Griffin is most passionate about serving children and the elderly. Her genuine love and care can be felt by children young and old from the time they first encounter her. As a young adult, Cheryl created short stories called "Children's Sermons" that were two to three minutes long based on life lessons that were Bible-centered. A beacon of hope and light in both ministry and the marketplace, she has been fortunate to be Employee of the Year twice in her school district in Tallahassee, Florida. For booking, interviews or speaking engagements, contact her at ceedeekaye@gmail.com.

Artavius "Arty" Williams

As a humble and meek young man, Artavius "Arty" Williams has loved to sing, draw and tell everyone about his love for Jesus since he could talk. A senior at Rickard's High School in Tallahassee, Florida, this seventeen-year-old world changer works after school and during the summer with students at a local elementary school. When he's not empowering elementary students, he's out spending time with his friends and/or shopping. One of many vivid dreams he had as a child, this book reflects the vision of a little boy, his dream, and his understanding at that age of the Holy Spirit.

Brandon Wiggins

Most passionate about making illustrated and animated series, artist and illustrator Brandon Wiggins has been drawing since the young age of three years old. But, for the first time at now thirty years old, his artwork has been in a published book. A visual storyteller at heart, Brandon loves creating fictional worlds and characters because they are a lifelong source of entertainment and experience for people of all ages and backgrounds. A graduate of The Art Institute of Tampa, Brandon holds a bachelor's degree in Media Arts and Animation.
