Exercise instructions Put the verb in brackets either in the past plain or past quite simple, positive negative question I/you/he/she/he/we/they arrived. I/you/he/she/he/we/they didn't arrive. Did I/you/he/she/he/we/they arrive? I worked in London. I worked in London. In positive suggestions, helping the verb as was or did not be used. Did he work in London? Did he work in London? Helping the verb made used in past simple questions. Did he write a letter? Did he write a letter? The main verb is used in an infinitive form in questions and negatives. He didn't write a letter. He didn't write a letter. The main verb is used in an infinitive form in questions and negatives. He wrote a letter. He wrote a letter. Some verbs are irregular. Not all verbs end in -ed in the last simple form. I/you/he/she/he/we/they're gone. Me/you/he/she/he/we/they didn't go. If I/you/he/she/he/we/they left? I haven't been to London. I haven't been to London. We use the verb of help was (negative and not) in the past perfect. When I saw him, I noticed he had a haircut. When I saw him, I noticed he had a haircut. The action (haircut) occurred before other past actions (I noticed). We use the past perfectly for actions that occurred in the first place to make the order of time clear to the listener. He told me he was in London. He told me he was in London. His original words were: I was in London. However, in the speech reported we move the tense back - the present ideal (were) becoming past perfect (was). - Cram Up - Grammar - Simple Past, Past Perfect See also explains about the simple past and past Perfect Simple Use We use Simple Past if we give past events in the order in which they occurred. However, when we look back from a certain time in the past to tell what happened before, we use Past Perfect. Normal order in the past or looking back at an event up to a certain time in you just want to tell what happened some time in the past, or you want to say what happened before / before a certain time in The Note signal words are only used as a signal word for Past Perfect if followed by the verb object and verb, which means that one action has been completed before another action (the new action is in Simple Past). Example: After the family had breakfast, they went to the zoo. However, if the verb after is followed by an object and an object, the verb belongs to a new action and is therefore in Simple Past. Example: After visiting the zoo, Jane was exhausted. More exceptions with tell-tale words When depending on the situation when can be used with a simple past or past Perfect. Compare the following examples: Example: When Jane saw the elephants, she was amazed. (at the same time) When Jane saw the elephants, she wanted to see giraffes. When Jane went to look at the elephants, she had already seen the lions. (the second action was completed when the first action occurred) Before the Before, and can also be used with a simple past or past Perfect. If the after-up action is a new action, use Simple Past. If the action after the pre-started (and has not been completed) before a certain time in the past, use Past Perfect. Compare the following examples: Example: Jane read a lot about elephants before she went to the zoo. Jane went to the zoo before she finished reading her new book about elephants.
