HP Deskjet 3051A Reviews - HP Deskjet 1050 is an entry-level general purpose all-in-one in the HP range, while the Deskjet 3051a, is the next model up. Looks superficially like a cheaper machine, however, is said to be faster and has a 38mm LCD like its stable, Deskjet 3000. The Deskjet 3051a styling is very similar to the DeskJet 1050, except that the top surface with a high gloss is more very dark brown than the black jet. The paper tray support, which flips up from its resting position on top of the printer, has the same glossy finish, and the maroon go-faster strip emphasizes the connection between the scanner and its lid. The paper guide is chosen in the same burgundy color. To turn the wireless transceiver on and off, scan the document, print quick forms, and cancel the current task, the control panel uses a column of seven flexible stripe buttons. There are three soft buttons associated with the LCD display that take on different functions depending on the context of the menu.
