

"Our audiences adore Sarah and so do her bandmates. She possesses a natural and intuitive jazz feel, spot-on pitch control, a deep devotion to the study of her art, and a laid-back, friendly demeanor that makes working with her a genuine pleasure! Sarah's charming and intimate singing style resonate with her listeners and her beautiful clarinet playing is an extra added bonus!" Paul Keller

Sarah D'Angelo is an up-and-coming favorite in the Detroit Jazz scene. She is a graduate of West Virginia University (Bachelor of Music Ed) and The University of Michigan (Master of Music Performance) and got her start as multi-faceted vocalist as a Detroit church soloist and in the studio of Sir Wick (Sir Wick "An Interpretation of a Universal Language"). She can be found trading fours in local Detroit jazz, rocking it out on festival stages or answering questions as a featured artist in local magazines and television. She has sung on various stages all over Michigan and the Midwest including the Michigan Jazz Festival, Mackinac Island Jazz Festival, Lansing Jazz Festival and the Brighton Jazz&Blues Fest.

“Sarah D’Angelo’s turn at bat nicely supports the kind of two-step rhythmic jazz that made Incognito a worldwide institution.” L. Michael Gibson, Soul Tracks

“Sarah D’Angelo does it with verve, class, confidence, poise, perfect intonation, spot-on phrasing, terrific dynamics, personal expression and loads of love. She’s an incredible team player with her own exquisite persona”

“She can float above the band as an upper register instrument, but can also dig right in and swing mightily. When I listen to Sarah D’Angelo ...and watch her in action, I reminded of an adage that my mother told me years ago: “beauty is as beauty does”. Sarah D’Angelo brings natural beauty in every respect to her performance”
