It worked well until Big Sur Nov 18, 2020 10:50 AM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options Nov 18, 2020 10:55 AM in response to sfranco In response to sfranco You probably need to reach out to Neat Support - 's MacOS Support has been... spotty, shall we say. Their web sites list 10.14 (Mojave, 2018) as the latest version they support. There might be tricks to get the drivers to work in Big Sur, but the place to start would be Neat themselves. Nov 18, 2020 10:55 AM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options Nov 23, 2020 6:49 AM in response to Camelot In response to Camelot Neat support will does not support legacy software any longer all they want is for you to sign up for their monthly service at almost $14.00 a month for mediocre storage Nov 23, 2020 6:49 AM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options Nov 23, 2020 7:08 AM in response to sfranco In response to sfranco If Neat does not provide the compatible scanner support for Big Sur, and/or you choose not to participate in a subscription relationship, then your choices are use the scanner and software on a prior version of macOS where it is supported, or find another scanner solution that works on Big Sur with vendor support, or by means of VueScan Professional without requiring the scanner vendor drivers. Nov 23, 2020 7:08 AM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options Nov 23, 2020 7:18 AM in response to VikingOSX In response to VikingOSX Neat does provide a scan utility that works with Big Sur and their scanner, the problem is having the scan documents categorized and the legacy software used to do. For that they want an expensive cloud based software, other companies that have such software are for windows only. Nov 23, 2020 7:18 AM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options Nov 23, 2020 7:52 AM in response to sfranco In response to sfranco Looks like Neat has backed you into a corner. Either retreat from Big Sur to a version of macOS that supports the software that does categorize the scans, or stay on Big Sur and fork out money for their cloud based software that categories. Or shop for a scanning solution that currently categories scans on Big Sur without the Neat tax. Nov 23, 2020 7:52 AM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options Nov 23, 2020 11:08 AM in response to sfranco In response to sfranco I have two possible solutions for you. Apple's Image Scan software works with most scanners. It is not full featured, though. Try it out and see if it works. Or you can download and try the VueScan app for free to see if it works. It works with most scanners and is fully Big Sur compliant. There is a reasonable one time fee for it. It is full featured. I purchased it and recommend it. (I have no association with VueScan.) Nov 23, 2020 11:08 AM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options Nov 24, 2020 7:11 PM in response to sfranco In response to sfranco Yeah, since upgrading to Big Sur, my Neat scanner NM-1000 is useless. The Neat website doesn't mention Big Sur and for prior versions of MacOS like Mojave and Catalina, they needed to release "legacy" driver updates / posted special pages for these MacOS versions. Nothing yet for Big Sur. Specifically, the problem my Neat scanner is having is 1 - it doesn't recognize that a page has been inserted up against the roller with that usual twitch of the roller mechanism. 2 - the Apple imaging utility (aka Neat Mobile Scanner) does let you start a scan, but the roller never stops after the page has exited the scanner, and there is no image ever deposited into the relevant folder. Also - stay away from VueScan - I already tried this based on advice here, and that app is useless too, it does not recognize the Neat scanner at all. Just says that no scanner was found on your system. And it's a clunky old app anyway. I left a support SOS on the Neat site at . Who knows if they'll reply. I'll update here if I have any success. I'm thinking it may just be time to buy a new mini scanner though. Every single MacOS update it's a new hassle with this thing and I resent Neat's attempts to revise their hardware business into document cloud storage and then pretend like my scanner just shouldn't exist anymore, unless I cough up some subscription fee. Certainly not worth it - money better spent on a new scanner. Nov 24, 2020 7:11 PM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options Nov 24, 2020 8:20 PM in response to marcworld In response to marcworld I just ordered the Epson ES-50 which was the closest thing I could find in size, function, and price point to my old Neat NM-1000. It's on sale at all of the big retailers right now for $89. I'd like to think I can return this if Neat solves the driver issue quickly but I'm not optimistic and really need a scanner right now. Download and install the latest NEAT SCAN UTILITY from the NEAT web site in your APPLICATIONS folder. After installation and before opening the (now legacy) NEAT program, double click on NEAT SCAN UTILITY in your application folder. Open and scan in the NEAT program. This process has not failed (YET!) Dec 5, 2020 7:05 AM Reply Helpful (1) Thread reply - more options Dec 5, 2020 9:15 AM in response to MarcoNJ In response to MarcoNJ Thanks, it worked perfectly! Dec 5, 2020 11:21 AM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options Dec 5, 2020 3:27 PM in response to sfranco In response to sfranco @MarcoNJ, @JR1618, @sfranco - Not enough detail in the posts above. Please clarify what version of MacOS you are using, and exactly the nature of your problems that you were having with the Neat Scanner? For me, just to be sure if this suggestion was good - I pulled out my Neat scanner again, and installed the "Neat Scan Utility", which does not work on its own - you must also install the "Neat Drivers", the currently available version of the drivers being 4.0.1. On my Big Sur Mac, using the Neat Scan Utility application resulted in exactly the same malfunction as when I tried using the MacOS native scanner application -- the roller mechanism of the scanner continues to roll for far too long, not recognizing the end of the page, and when it finally does stop on its own - maybe 8 seconds after the page was ejected? - there is no image returned to the application. Just nothing. So, I'm still confident the issue is a bug in the driver for Big Sur. Putting the Neat scanner back into the closet, uninstalling the app and drivers...and resuming use of my Epson ES-50 which I should add is a much faster scanner than the Neat scanner ever was. Didn't love buying a new one but it works and the scan time feels maybe 25% less than Neat's hardware used to be. Dec 5, 2020 3:27 PM Reply Helpful Thread reply - more options
