Best man speech jokes friend

Starting the best man's speech is the hardest part. Once you've said a few words, shaken from those nerves, and realized that the crowd isn't full of people about to throw tomatoes at you, you'll step in, but those first sentences can be pretty scary. The trick is to get the audience on your side from the outside with a short, easy-to-understand joke that sets the tone for the speech to follow. Here are some great opening ideas for man's best speeches. 1) If there's anyone here today who feels nervous, apprehensive and queasy at the thought of what's ahead, it's probably because he just got married [BOYFRIEND'S NAME]. 2) Good night. I'm so happy to preside over the only five minutes that the bride didn't plan. Of course, I'm just joking. He reanated the speech with me half an hour ago at the bar. 3) Everyone here who knows Sophie will know that she is a wonderful and kind person, who deserves a good husband. Thank God Theo married her before finding one. 4) We have now reached the point in the procedure when we all get to see the boyfriend change uncomfortably in his seat and grab the tablecloth in nervous anticipation. That's right, I've been asked to give him the drinks bill. 5) It's been an emotional day, even the cake is on levels. 6) I just felt there was a competitive sweep in the length of best man's speech. I put my money in 45 minutes, so settle in... 7) My name is James and I am the best man. Many of you would begin to differ, but it would do well to keep quiet – I know your secrets. 8) I would like to congratulate the groom for a truly magnificent speech. I always knew it would be hard to follow and he was right – I could barely follow a word of it. 9) Being asked to be someone's best man is like being called for jury duty. You really don't want to do it, but you know you have to. You're made to dress up in a dress and pretend to be a member of the community. The only difference is that he did not have an opinion if the life sentence passed earlier today. 10) I asked for a microphone, but was told that one was unavailable. So if you can't hear me behind, the silence of the people at the front should reassure you that you're not losing anything. Apparently, as a better man, I'm supposed to sing the groom's praises and talk about his good qualities. Unfortunately, I can't sing and I won't lie. 12) Good night, ladies and gentlemen. Before I came here today one of my good friends gave me some advice on giving this speech. He said thinking about it as walking through a nudist camp, it's only hard for the first minute. 13) You have no idea how much I've been waiting for today. After all the time I've been friends with the groom, he's finally been friends with the boyfriend boyfriend that I am, in fact, the best man. Before we start, I just want to apologize for not being an experienced public speaker. I'll probably spend most of the time looking at this piece of paper in my hands. Oh, it's not my notes – it's a picture of the triple vodka that I'm going to go down as soon as this is over. 15) First of all I would like to say that I am very nervous about making this speech. In fact, this must be the third time today that I have got up from a hot seat with pieces of paper in my hand. 16) I don't believe in roasting the groom on his special day. Therefore, this speech will contain nothing embarrassing or controversial about Matt. Instead, I'll refer only to the kind and funny side of his character. Thank you and good night. 17) It's rare to be giving a speech like this, because my parents always told me that if I had nothing good to say about someone, I should just be quiet. 18) Loyal, supportive, sincere, honest, a great man... But that's enough for me, I'm here to give a speech about Arthur! 19) For those of you who don't know me, my name is Sam and for those who know me... I apologize. My full name is actually Sam-would-you-like-a-drink. For those of you with whom to chat at the bar later, I would appreciate it if I could use my full name. 20) Please keep clapping and cheering to a minimum. I have a terrible hunger. I know, you shouldn't drink the night before a wedding, but I couldn't let the groom drink alone, could you? 21) Now, before we begin, the manebre of the place has asked me to, for health and safety reasons, none of you will stand on top of chairs and tables during my standing ovation. 22) I have no problem admitting to all of you that I am extremely nervous right now. And, as people sitting near the front of the room can attest, it is actually possible to smell fear. One of the most entertaining moments on any wedding day is the best man's speech, an opportunity for a close friend or family member to roast the groom one last time before he heads red-faced into married life. And let's be honest, that the best man has time to write a totally original, personally relevant, laugh-a-line routine these days?
