As the tables are inaccessible and the forum isn't mostly available at the moment, I thought I'd reload it here. I didn't make this table. Unfortunately, I can't remember which members actually created it (there were three or four recent contributor, the irc). I just made a little adjustment to the recent steam version of the game because the player's structure moved a little and so did its layout. But that's it. So don't believe me, because I'm just a leech with sharing in mind. Enjoy :) How to use this cheat table? Install Cheat Engine Double-click . CT file to open it. Keep the list. The movement in player statistics has been copied instead fortunately; There are two successes in player statistics. Although tinkering with a slightly older version of the cheat table I had some time ago, the business location of the old table player statistic still works in the new version and in the new table; which I copied and pasted from the old table of the work shop player statistics to the current one. It's not that great and I don't know how to fix it to be in other players' stats, but at least it's better than nothing. EDIT: Come and note that the pedestal script is working. My evil! Attachments isaac-ng_withmovementfix.ct Cheat table, which is a movement player statistic works, as well as all other things in a table sent op. All you have to do is activate the script, retrieve the item from the pedestal, and then you can change the pedestal object any way you want. The graphic doesn't change, the base still looks blank (unless you use a description mode that displays the correct description). Nudge against an empty pedestal and you'll get your stuff. Alternatively, if you're not convinced, pick up the application when you already have a use, you'll see that the base just gets the product ID you just switched. I've been looking at a statistical hacker, but I haven't been able to fix it easily. I don't want to mess with my stats trying to find it. Things aren't working with the players' pointers, but the infinite bombs are working. It also has a script for guaranteed wins with bum! I know someone was looking for one, so that's it. I haven't tested it either, but I doubt it will work. I hope someone can fix this table so it works. Annexes CTAB+.
