Adirondack Community

Sponsored by the Keene Valley Library, Adirondack Community is a multi-year local history project that collects and organizes audio stories and related photographs from Town of Keene community members through this online platform to share our rich social and cultural history in New York State's Adirondack Mountains.

Stories of yesterday and today, by young and old, will remind you why our town's stories must be told!

Story Highlight

Each month we highlight a story from one of the categories below. Although in the Town of Keene we pay our local taxes at other times of the year, we still think of April as tax time. Donna Reed Austin, formerly the town's tax collector, found a way to add humor to her normally unwelcome task.

This project was initially made possible by a Humanities New York grant, with support from the National Endowment for the Humanities, additional support from the Glenn and Carol Peersall Foundation, Northern New York Library Network, and supportive community members and powered by Memira.org. Continuing support beyond year one has been generously provided by community members. Any views, findings, conclusions, or recommendations expressed in this program do not necessarily represent those of the National Endowment for the Humanities or other sponsors.
