Luxembourg Healthcare Gala Dinner

Launched in 2014, the Healthcare Summit has attracted between 300 and 400 professionals every year from the hospital, healthcare, research and life sciences sectors as well as practitioners and doctors for a unique moment of sharing.

Since then, professionals have been awarded through the Luxembourg Healthcare Awards in order to highlight the best practices and initiatives of the sector but also to contribute to the sharing of information and knowledge in this industry as well as explore how the technology impacts our daily life.

With the implementation of the shared healthcare file, the relationship between patients and healthcare professionals have evolved. The patient is more and more autonomous in the following up of his own health and has access to a large range of products and services to do so.

On the other hand, healthcare professionals face many different challenges in a period of uncertainty, unpredictability and increased work intensity. They play a critical role in ensuring a resilient organisation to comply with day-to-day requirements while staying ahead of the trends in their position and using the latest innovations to help them in their position.

It's essential to bring forward the best ideas and innovations to support the development of new and effective treatments, tools, services.

Working together has been an instrumental part in our ability to come so far, so fast and that's why, after two years of postponing this gathering, this event is back next July 1st, in a seated-dinner format to gather the healthcare community and live a new great moment of sharing.

The Luxembourg Healthcare Awards Gala Dinner will take place in the frame of ICT Spring, a global tech event featuring high level conferences, exhibitions and demonstrations of the latest tech trends and innovations.

ICT Spring will include a half-day dedicated to HealthTech topics on July 1st afternoon and these conferences will be followed by a Gala Dinner, in the same location, reserved for healthcare professionals and their ecosystem.
