Rather than going to the hospital's annual charity ball, Barbie's younger sister, Kelly, dreams of eating cookies and drinking cocoa in front of her fireplace. Like the eternal festive tale of Charles Dickens, depicted in Saiturin joulu (1951) to convince her, Barbie tells the story of the famous Victorian singer Eden Starling, who demands that her team cancel their Christmas plans to rehearse her upcoming show. Will night visits to the Christmas Spirits of the past, present and future help Eden change his mind? So Barbie takes a break to tell her the story of Eden Starling, a famous British singer who hated Christmas, a cold and tyrannical woman with people who worked for her. Eden is very selfish and demands that her staff report to work on Christmas Eve because she believes there is nothing to celebrate and warns that those who do not appear will be fired. No one can understand a woman's attitude and saddened by the news, employees decide that they should work or lose their job. But that night something was going on with the house of Eden, which was visited by the spirit of her Aunt Marie, the woman who raised her, and that made her the coldest woman that she is. Aunt Marie makes a journey through the childhood of Eden and makes her remember why she hates Christmas. Another spirit is to visit Eden when Aunt Marie goes. The Spirit That Will Show present and future future that will have taught her the true meaning of Christmas. Prev Articles Next article Own it on DVD and Digital Now. Also available on demand.
