In our family, there was no clear boundary between religion and fly fishing. We lived at the junction of large trout rivers in western Montana, and our father was a Presbyterian minister and fly fisherman who tied up his own flies and taught others. He told us that Christ's disciples were fishermen, and we were left to assume, as my brother and I did, that all the first-class fishermen on the Sea of Galilee were flying fishermen and that John, the favorite, was a fisherman on dry flies. Norman Maclean, Barry Moser (1989). A River Runs Through It, p. 1, university of Chicago Press I think I fish, partly because it's an antisocial, bohemian job that, when it's not right, puts you out of mainstream culture forever without actually landing you in an institution. John Gierach (film). Death, Taxes, and Leaky Waders: A John Gierach Fly-Fishing Treasury, p. 303, Simon and Schuster For going fishing is an opportunity to wash the soul with clean air, the rush of streams, or with the shimmer of the sun on the blue water. It brings meekness and inspiration from the decency of nature, charity to problem makers, patience with fish, ridiculing profits and egos, turning down hate, looking forward to not having to decide the damn thing until next week. And this is a discipline in equality of men - because all men are equal before fish. Herbert Hoover (film). To be absolute sure of something, one must know all or nothing about it. --Henry KissingerWorld in which the sacramental portion of food can be taken the old way - hunting, fishing, agriculture, gathering - has to do with social reason as well as daily work for daily pay. Thomas McGuane Someone behind you, while fishing, is as bad as someone looking over your shoulder as you write a letter to your girlfriend. Ernest Hemingway You can't say enough about fishing. Although the sport of kings, that's exactly what the dead man ordered. -- Thomas McGuane How no man is born an artist, so no man is born like Izaak Walton In the end, all things merge into one, and the river passes through it. -- Norman MacleanStvari MacleanStvari to know about Trout are not facts, but articles of faith. -- John Gierach There's always a hot new fly. Precious few of these samples are real breakthroughs destined to last a hundred years, but more often the bes are right comments on existing tradiitions, research into half-baked theories, attempts to use new and interesting materials, impress other levels or excuses to rename old patterns. The results are often meaningless whims like craziness in some pretentious restaurants plopping fried quail eggs at all or calling sandwiches paninis. John Gierach I may be wrong, but I doubt it. Charles Barkley Siromah can only afford the best. -- Anon. The biggest enemy of 'good' is 'better'--Voltaire Many go fishing all their lives not knowing it's not the fish they're looking for. -- Henry David Thoreau The solution to every problem - work, love, money, whatever - is to go fishing, and the worse the problem, the longer the journey should be. -- John Gierach Never leave a fish to find a fish. Moses 1200BC Honestly, I don't live much, but I make life hell. 'Jack GartsideBuy the patient and calm - because no one can catch a fish in anger. -- Herbert Hoover The Master in the Art of Living makes no sharp distinction between his work and his play; his work and leisure; his mind and his body; education and recreation. He barely knows which one is which. He simply follows his vision of excellence through everything he does and leaves it to others to determine whether he works or plays. For himself, he always seems to do both. Francois Auguste Rene Chateaubriand The great charm of a man is that we always learn. -- Theodore Gordon If I'd only fished to catch a fish, my fishing trips would have ended a long time ago. -- Zane GreyPole far enough away and the fish will find you. -- Steve Huff You're missing 100 percent of the shots you never take. -- Wayne Gretzky I go fishing not to find myself but to get lost -- Joseph Monniger There is certainly something about fishing that tends to produce the serenity of the mind. Washington Irving Listen to the sound of the river and you'll get a trout. --The Irish adage The charm of fishing is that it is a search for what is elusive, but attainable, a lasting set of opportunities for hope. John Buchan When you go through hell, keep going. -- Art Walker Angling can be said to be so much like mathematics that you can never fully learn -- Izaak Walton The man who coined the phrase Money can't buy happiness, never bought himself a good fly stick! -- Reg Baird Go fishing is an opportunity to wash your soul with clean air, with a rush of streams or with shimmering sun on blue water. It brings meekness and inspiration from the decency of nature, charity towards problem makers, patience with fish, ridicule of profits and egos, the quieting of hatred, I don't have to decide the damn thing until next week. And this is a discipline in equality of men - because all men are equal before fish. -- Herbert Hoover Take care of the fish, and the fishing will take care of itself. -- Art Neumann Testament fisherman I fish because I love; for I love the environment that there is a trout, which is always beautiful, and I hate the environment in which there are crowds of people, who are always ugly; because of all the television commercials, cocktail parties and various social campaigns, I run away like that; for, in a world where most men spend their lives doing things they hate, my fishing is suddenly an endless source of pleasure and an act of small rebellion; for trout do not lie or deceive and cannot be bought or bribed or impressed with strength, but react only to silence and humility and infinite patience; for I doubt that men go this way one last time, and I do not want to lose my way; for mercifully there is no telephone on the fishing waters; for only in the forest can I find solitude without loneliness; because bourbon from an old tin glass tastes better; for perhaps one day I will catch a mermaid; and, finally, not because I find fishing so terribly important, but because I suspect that many other concerns of men are equally irrelevant -- and not nearly as entertaining -- Robert Traver. 1964 Wise and hilarious reflections on one of our favorite past times February 7, 2011For centuries people have tried to describe pen and paper fishing.
