For other people named David Goldberg, see David Goldberg (disambiguation), David E. GoldbergBorn (1953-09-26) September 26, 1953 (age 66)NationalAmericanAlma materUniversity MichiganSniize forWork in Genetic AlgorithmsSman CareerShenetich AlgorithmsInstitution of Illinois in Urbana-ChampaignDoctoral AdvisorE. Benjamin Wylie, John Henry Holland David Edward Goldberg (born September 26, 1953) is an American computer scientist, civil engineer and former professor. Until 2010, he was a professor in the Department of Industrial and Corporate Systems Engineering (IESE) at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign and was recognized for his work in genetic algorithms. He was director of the Illinois Laboratory of Genetic Algorithms (IllIGAL) and co-founder and chief scientist of Nextumi, who later changed its name to ShareThis. He is the author of genetic algorithms in search, optimization and machine learning, one of the most cited books in computer science. Early life and education David E. Goldberg received his doctorate in civil engineering in 1983 from the University of Michigan. His advisers were E. Benjamin Wylie and John Henry Holland. He has collaborated with several evolutionary scientists, including Kalyanma Deb, Jeff Horn and Hillola Karguptu. In 2003, David Goldberg was appointed first-time recipient of Jerry S. Voluntary Professor of Entrepreneurial Engineering at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign. Published in 1983.
