Tareekh All India Muslim League 1906-1947 G. Sarfaraz Hassan Mirza The first session of the All India Muslim League Jamhur All India Muslim League Jamhur (Urdu: اَلْاَئِذِا حَمَلُورِ مَسْلَم لِيگ) was formed in 1940 to oppose the Lahore Resolution adopted by the All India Muslim League, for a separate Pakistan based on the theory of the two nations of Muhammad Muhammad. The first meeting of the party took place in Muzaffarpur in Bihar. Raja Mahmudabad was elected President and Dr. Magfur Ahmad Ajazi was elected Secretary-General. Raja Mahmudabad later changed his mind under the influence of Jinnah, who had long been a family friend, and returned to Jinnah in 1941. A large faction of the Jamhir Muslim League, led by Dr. Ajazee, has teamed up with Congress to strengthen its view of opposing The partition of India. (quote necessary) Inquiries : Sajjad, Mohammad (January 2011). Muslim resistance to communal separatism and colonialism in Bihar: the nationalist policies of Bihar Muslims. The history and culture of South Asia. 2 (1): 16–36. doi:10.1080/19472498.2011.531601. Magfur Ajazi created the All India Muslim League of Jamhur in 1940 to oppose Jinnah's Pakistani scheme. See also the All India Azad Muslim Conference extracted from in this book, the author takes Pakistan as an example in search of the best definitions of nation and nationalism, claiming that it exhibits three main ingredients that are: a distinctive integrated community, a special set of circumstances, and a focused guide. It discusses all three elements in the local context, focusing in particular on the changing leadership of the All India Muslim League, as evidenced by modern sources. The achievement of Pakistan was primarily the work of the leaders of the Muslim League, and especially of the Leader of the Muslim League, and especially of the Kuade-e-Azam, Mohammed Ali Jinnah, but it would not have been possible without the previous close-knit community and the stimulus of neighboring nationalism.
