In the ever-evolving world of wine, tradition and innovation swirl together like a well-aged blend. This book explores the dynamic intersections of winemaking, marketing, logistics, and sensory science, revealing how recent advances are reshaping not only how wine is produced and distributed, but also how it is experienced and appreciated. Whether it is the rise of AI-driven wine informatics or the global boom in wine tourism, each chapter uncorks a new perspective on this timeless beverage. We delve into the molecular mysteries of wine chemistry, where tannins, esters, and acids dance in delicate balance, and explore how data and digital tools are transforming wine authenticity verification and consumer preferences.
