Read what your 2019 horoscope predictions have in store for you, or check your Libra personality profile. This new season is all about the impact that other people have on your life, Libra. You sign the zodiac known for relationships, but this season specifically concerns relationships that are in the public eye. During the new moon in Aries on Friday, April 5th, you will get a new perspective that will help you start an updated emotional cycle in your most important relationships. Since joining Sagittarius in November, the philosophical planet of growth, Jupiter, has been in your home of learning and writing. Once on Wednesday, April 10 (end August 11), you will review your current written and academic projects and you will want to check to make sure you are on the right track. Last month, Mercury Retrograde shook up many planning complications at work. While it threw a wrench into your performance, Mercury Retrograde allowed you space to parse through emotional issues. Mercury retrograde does not end completely once the retrograde is technically finished; he still has to go back on the way he was retrograde. This time of forgiveness and repetition is called the post-retrograde shadow period. Mercury clears its shadow on Tuesday, April 16, helping you finally power through the to-do list. It's a breath of fresh air when Mercury enters Aries on Wednesday, April 17, which is your home partnership. Other people in your life will be much more talkative and mentally connected to you. It's an exciting, socializing hard time for your relationship. Focus on taking care of yourself during the full moon in Libra on Friday, April 19. Right now, you'll be able to recognize the balance in your partnerships. If you give away too much of your energy or you don't take care of yourself first, this full moon is going to reveal what you need to do to move forward. Your relationship will get deeper and more intense this month as you learn to trust your friends and partners. Your concept of intimacy will deepen at the end of April. When the sun enters the sign Venus ruled the Taurus sign on Saturday, April 20, he illuminates your home of shared resources. Your planetary ruler, the love and money of the planet Venus, enters Aries on the same day, bringing pleasure in your relationship. The end of April is a time when your relationship will be deeper and more intense, when you learn to trust your friends and partners. We know that there is so much going on in the world. Many of you may feel anxious, frightened, or isolated right now. And while stars don't have the answers to the myriad questions running through all our minds right now, there's nothing wrong with seeking solace and comfort in astrology, beauty, or any of your interests, for that matter. Welcome to April, Libra. You are a social sign, so staying during a pandemic can get to you. On Friday, April 3, your ruling planet Venus (goddess of love, beauty and abundance) enters the flirtatious Gemini. Your sexing skills are already on point, but this transit encourages you to put them to good use. If social distancing has you down, put on some of your favorite music and do your hair and makeup in a way that makes you happy. Have a selfie photo shoot and send photos to your crush, partner or friends - just ask first to make sure they're down to get them. Tuesday, April 7, in your sign full moon. Try to find a window with a view so that you can bask in the rays of the full moon and think about how awesome you are. It's easy to feel down during times of stress, but you also have to remember your strengths. If no one has told you recently how amazing you are, find ways to provide that check for yourself. Don't be afraid to defend your needs, but don't forget to be empathetic. Communication planet Mercury enters the bold Aries on Saturday, April 11. Are you getting the support you need in these difficult times? If someone is flaking at phone calls or FaceTime sessions, this transit encourages you to ask for more from them. Don't be afraid to stand up for your needs, but remember to be empathetic - other people are going through this difficult time, too. The Taurus season begins on Sunday, April 19, and this sign shares Venus as the ruling planet with you. What does that mean? It's time to try your best to relax. Do whatever Venus would like you to do. Take a nap when you can, eat your favorite foods, and enjoy your beauty routines. You have permission to be lazy and double down on self-service. Welcome to May, Libra! We live in busy times and some old injuries may have come up for you at the end of April. You're still processing, during the full moon in the transformative Scorpio on Thursday, May 7, there may be some emotional clarity. If you can, light a candle and meditate with the intention of freeing up old painful luggage. Luggage. The moon is a powerful time of manifestation and can allow you to let go of something that no longer serves you. Creating a ritual out of your intention can make you feel powerful, and that's what magic is all about. Saturn goes retrograde in the revolutionary Aquarius on Sunday, May 10, where it will remain until Tuesday, September 29. During this time, you're being asked to adjust to your career, Libra. Many people face professional and financial fall out of COVID-19, and as a sign of the rules of sweet Venus, it is in your nature to create beautiful things. Think about ways to turn around at this time. Can you take your job online? Show art creations on social media? It's okay if you don't have all the answers, but this transit wants you to find new ways to continue sharing your talents with the world. Give your love to those who need it when you have energy. Your ruling planet, Venus, goes retrograde in flirtatious Gemini from Tuesday, May 12 to Wednesday, June 24. Venus retrograde sucks. The planet rules with abundance, love and beauty. When it's retrograde, these delightful areas of life can go in the back. Times are already extremely difficult financially. The last thing anyone needs is a problem with the expense chase. Relationships can feel stuck. So what can you do? Be a big man. There are no easy solutions right now, but if possible, try to forgive in your personal relationships. Give your love to those who need it when you have energy. September can be a month to pop out the cheetah print, Libra! We all know that you love a good fashion statement. With Venus, your ruler and the planet that rules love and beauty in Leo, you will spend a month falling out and enjoying every second. Try something new to show your power of style and taste, and perhaps consider creating your own YouTube channel. With Jupiter, the planet of abundance and Saturn, the planet of borders, turning right by the end of the month, you will find that your efforts to work at home will reap their benefits. September will be ripe with opportunities for you, but make sure you keep an eye on the target. There are many distractions in the world and it would be a pity not to learn from your previous mistakes. What September 2020 has in store for Libra relations On September 10 begins the retrograde journey of Mars, the ruler of your home relationship. Being that Mars will be retrograde in Aries, you will spend the next few months seriously considering what you are working from in your close relationship. Do you have a partnership that overwhelms you or a relationship that seems to lack direction? Now is not the time to pounce and throw fit -- it's time to your energy, reflect on how and why you enter into a relationship, and heal past relationships. Chiron's Aries reminds you to have compassion for your younger self; we do a lot of stupid things when we're young. Sometimes you think you've got over something, but instead, you just rushed the healing process. Take your time. Libra. The world is not moving fast just because you want to. Tarot map of the month for LibraKing Pentacles: You know what you are capable of, so take the power of your empire as ruler that you are! July 2020 Horoscope on Libra's time to leave your existential funk, Libra! Venus, the ruler of your home self, begins July right in the sign of Gemini, which means you'll have an easier time communicating. July may be the month when you find someone to settle down with. With Mars, having traveled to Fish, where he stayed in your home health and routine throughout June, you feel more empowered and motivated by your close bond. You can unpack children's wounds that enhance less-than-ideal behavior. Stay tuned for July 12, when the Moon, Chiron Retrograde, and Mars all enter into an independent Aries sign. Find out what is normal to separate from those closest to you. In fact, they may be better in some cases. What July 2020 has in store for Libra relations Is only Venus, the ruler of your home itself, direct but so Mars, the ruler of your home relationship! You probably already know this about yourself, Libra, but you like to have a safe attachment with others. If you have them though, you don't feel a strong need to dwell on them. With Mars, a planet that rules with passion and libido, in the sign of Aries, there is a strong call to action to which you will be forced to respond. This is a time when friendship decay and arguments easily occur, especially when the Mars Chiron connection is exactly July 14. Chiron is the asteroid that rules our deepest wound and our greatest gift, which for you can mean the restoration of your power through independence and self-help.
