(A/n Hello to everyone it was my first story, so don't judge too much) PS if you don't know what a viper is. It formed Xcom2 all viper women except the viper king. I'll put a jug of one at the bottom of the chapter, Y/N men your name, for thoughts that I put bold and multi-man. It was a normal day on planet Earth in New York, my name is Y/N. I am now 30 years old. I was part of the army. I joined the armed forces when I was 18. However, two years ago, when I was 28, the aliens came back. They forced governments to disband their armies. It made me withdraw because the aliens control the world now, but I didn't trust them at all. Today I need to buy something for the cabin, because I don't like the city. I'm moving to the cabin to get away from Advent. I have to get something from the gun shop and some food for the cabin. When I come to the gun shop, I feel like something's being watched. I bought a double-barrelled hunting shotgun and a tactical M5 rifle, I bought 20 magazines for m5, 50 buckshot, 50 boxes of bullet shells for a shotgun to be sent to my house for my cabin to move. When I leave the store in a nearby alley to take a short path to the grocery store to lose that sense of what was being watched. I looked back, and a man followed me in the alley. He caught up with me and made me turn my head to look at him. (????) Hey, you're not? (Y/N) Who wants to know? (????) Xcom does, we want you to work for us on sending aliens from our world with your help. (Y/N) I don't know anything about your organization at all, but if you try to get me into a war, it's going to kill me. The answer is no then. (????) I don't like people who won't try to fight for our world. They're weak. (Y/N) Wait a minute, I'm not weak! Then the man stabbed me. I caught a blow with my hand and then twisted the man's arm around his back about to break his arm. (????) You're strong, Central was right about you. (Y/N) What do you mean... There's a smoke bomb in the alley. Somehow the guy got out of my hand and ran. I couldn't see where he was going, so I went to the exit of the alley. When I came out of it I ran into Advent soldiers. (A/N) What it looks like. Oh! This image does not follow our content guidelines. To continue publishing, please delete it or upload another image. He got up and hit me on the ribs with a gun. It made me land on my knees and then on my stomach. When I see him about to curb the stomp on my head when Viper stops him from the curb stomping me. (Viper) I'm not hee I was in a nearby neighborhood when I saw smoke coming out of the alley. Then I see a man running out of smoke. He ran him to the soldier's arrival causing him to fall. Advent Soldier Gets and hits a man in the ribs. Then the man falls to his knees and then to his stomach. I see it's so I stop him from reining in the stomping civilians. Turner's grey sign: abdominal ectaumatic echimosi, in particular bruising on the flanks. George Gray Turner reported on the dirty-green discoloring on both patient with acute acute (confirmed in operation) Incidence of 3-5% in patients with acute pancreatitis associated with increased mortality (30-40%) and an increased risk of pseudo-Nazis. (Surgut Ginecol Obstet. 1984) CT scans helped to identify the anatomical pathways by which extravagant pancreatic enzymes and their effects lead to these caron discoloration. The pancreas. 1998...Extraperitoneal diffusion from the anterior pararenal space between the two leaves of the posterior renal fascia and then on the side edge of the quadrangle lumborum muscle.Communication can then spread to the posterior pararenal space and the structure of the flank wall. The lumbar triangle, the place of anatomical weakness on the flank wall, provides an external window into internal proteolytic events. The Story of George Gray Turner (1877-1951) was an English surgeon 1920 - Published article on local abdominal bleaching in a sign of acute pancreatitis referring to two cases of acute pancreatitis with fat necrosis and retroperitoneal bleeding - Gray Turner mark the first case since 1912 concerns a 54-year-old woman with three days of abdominal pain, present with the area of bleaching (bluish color), about 6 inches in diameter involving the abdominal wall surrounding umbilicus. ... the patient suffered from acute pancreatitis, with a large effusion in the abdominal cavity. She lived nine days after the surgery, and an autopsy revealed the sloughing of a pancreas with high-fat necrosis was the second case since 1917 to have contributed to the publication. In a cursory study of the voluminous literature on pancreatitis I noticed no mention of this sign Tenderness over the gallbladder area was very marked, and now I noticed two large bleached areas in the loins. They were the size of a palm, slightly raised above the surface, and dirty greenish color. Image of the sign Grey Turners: Original Photo: 1917. Atraumatic abdominal echimosi. LITFL 2018 names for the name of Lock editor Gretna Gray-Turner signs, or blue-green-brown large irregular spots on the skin of the two- or one-sided lumbar department, are usually found in the following diseases: the clinically related appearance of Gray-Turner symptoms with the appearance of severe pancreatitis and serious complications is considered a symptom of poor prognosis. In Dixon's study, the mortality rate was 37 percent for patients with Gray Turner syndrome and 37 percent for severe patients without symptoms. Thus, he concluded that the appearance of Gray-Turner's symptoms did not necessarily inflame the patient's death. But his research also showed that the onset of Gray-Turner's symptoms had a prescication effect on the occurrence of serious complications and was associated with the formation of false cysts.
