Highlights Rani Mukerji's 'Hichki' turns her best quality into a strength The story is about a woman who has to overcome her biggest weakness The film also stars Taapsee Pannu, Sonu Sood and Saif Ali Khan Rani Mukerji's 'Hichki' is a story of how a woman turns her best quality into a strength. Rani plays Naina Mathur, who is struggling to get a job as a teacher in a school, and to provide a better life for herself and her kids, when her husband Abhay (Sonu Sood) falls in love with another woman. But Naina, who is a kind-hearted, good-natured person with a soft heart, suddenly faces a setback. When she is rejected by the prospective employers for being a single mother, she cannot help but be shamed in front of her husband. A change of heart in Naina brings unexpected changes in her and Abhay's life. Here's what you need to know about the film. How was the film conceptualised and developed? 'Hichki' was conceptualised and developed at Mukerji Films' Mumbai studio. Director Abhishek Kapoor conceptualised the story and came up with the idea of telling a women-centric story. How did the story take shape? The story was inspired from a real-life incident in Mumbai. Naina Mathur was trying to get a job at a reputed school but was turned down because her family had been declared criminals and she was a single mother. The film is said to have a realistic edge, despite having an unusual premise "In India, women make up close to 50 per cent of the population. However, only 25 per cent of them are employed. Therefore, the film is said to have a realistic edge, despite having an unusual premise," she told Mid-Day. Rani Mukerji hopes the film 'Hichki' will be a source of inspiration for many women "We have a message for women everywhere that being a single mother is not a crime, nor is being a good, kind-hearted person," added Rani. Is the film based on a true story? Yes, Rani said, though it's a fictional account of the story. Where did the idea for the film come from? "
