Are you looking for ways to help others? Are you interested in community service and want to know more about it? Read this guide to find out what community service, examples of community service, and how you can find service projects that interest you. What is community service? Community service is a job done by a person or a group of people that benefits others. This is often done near the area where you live, so your own community is reaping the benefits of your work. You are not paid for community service, although sometimes volunteers are given food and small gifts, such as a T-shirt. Community service can help any group in need: children, the elderly, the disabled, English learners and more. It can also help animals, such as in a shelter, and it can be used to improve places such as a local park, historic building, or scenic area as well. Community service is often organized through a local group, such as a place of worship, a school or a non-profit organization. You can also start your own public works projects. Some students must complete community service within the class requirement in order to graduate from high school or become a member of certain organizations such as the National Honor Society. Adults can also participate in community service to help others, or if they are ordered to do so by a judge. What are the examples of public service? There are hundreds of ways to participate in community service, depending on your skills and interests. Some common examples of community service include: Working with schoolchildren: teaching children after school, collecting school supplies to donate, planting a school garden. Working with the elderly: visiting the residents of the pension center, delivering food to elderly residents, driving them to the reception. Improving the environment: holding a competition to recycle waste, plant trees, create a new trail in the natural center. Help for low-income people: transferring food in the soup kitchen, collecting hungry clothes for donations, making first aid kits for homeless shelters. Want to build the best college application? There are many benefits of engaging in community service, and some of the most important ones are listed below. opportunity to help others: This is often the most important community service. Participating in it gives you the opportunity to learn that you are improving someone's life and making your community better, and you can see the direct impact of your work. Get hands-on experience: You can learn a lot of skills when doing community service such as construction, painting, customer service, and medical skills. You can also include your community service work on your resume. Learn about different careers: Sometimes you can focus your community service on an area you may want to work in the future. Some examples of this include volunteering at an animal shelter if you are thinking about becoming a veterinarian, working in a hospital if you want to be a doctor, or volunteering at a museum if you like history. Experience gained from community service can help you get an internship or job in the future, and it also gives you the opportunity to see how much you have really enjoyed a particular career. Personal growth: Doing public works has personal advantages as well. This often makes participants more organized, responsible and compassionate, which are all good qualities to have, as well as qualities that both colleges and employers would like to see in entrants. Get new friends: The ultimate advantage is that you can meet a lot of great people doing community service. Community service is often done in groups, so it's easy to make friends with the people you work with. You can also make friends with the people you help, especially if you volunteer in the same place regularly. Where can you find community service projects? Your school or groups to which you belong: It can be clubs, places of worship, community centers or any other organizations you are a member of. To find opportunities for community service, check their website, bulletin board or newsletter. If you are a student, your school may also have a community service club, making it easier to participate. Places where you would like to volunteer: If you have a specific place where you would like to perform community service like a hospital or animal shelter, contact them and ask if they are accepting volunteers. Your community itself: You can also look for opportunities in your town hall, or a similar building. Also, check your city's website or newsletter. Many of these include a section that lists the current capabilities of volunteers. What's next? Did you know that your volunteer work can earn you money for college? Can!
