Before moving CU to Boulder, take the time to learn about us and plan ahead. Our website is set up to take you in stages through the transfer process and provide information as needed. International transfer students should check the International Applicants section of our website for more information. CU Boulder Transfer Team is here to help you at every step of the process, and we hope you can reach us and connect with us. Follow @FutureBuffs Instagram and Facebook or email us at transfer@colorado.edu. If you want to keep up to date with information about important search and deadlines, be sure to join our communication list. Transfer credit and selection criteria Read more about how we view transfer applications, how we process credits from university coursework, and what conditions you need to meet or be running with your application. CU Boulder does not have a minimum transfer hour requirement. Therefore, transfer applicants are checked for admission under either of two conditions: If you have at least 24 post-secondary school study hours, the selection board will focus primarily on your college academic record. If you have fewer than 24 post-secondary school study hours, university academic background and high school record or scores from the high school equivalence exam are assessed. If you have any questions about transfer credits, please email us tchelp@colorado.edu. Starting the school transfer process is an exciting time. We know that this change can also feel a little mysterious and frightening. We're here to help. Your transfer guidance instructors want to help you through this process from start to finish. The transfer application and the university application process are a great opportunity for you to reflect on everything you have already achieved in preparing to continue your unique academic journey. The purpose of the step-by-step overview below is to help you secure a successful transfer. Stand by. It is important to carefully check the entry requirements for the transfer, which may vary depending on which program you are applying for. They play a key role in assessing how competitive you are about admission. Also, remember that you can send transcripts of credits from your high school and current institution before submitting your transfer application, so we encourage you to start early! Understand your move. Start by creating a Transferology account Transferology.com/school/colorado. Transferology lets you view which of your credits are likely to be transferred to CU Boulder, create a transfer plan, and see the remaining core coursework for your degree program. With transferology, you can even plan which courses you want to take at your current school. Transfer. We also offer individual transfer selection appointments and assessments for prospective transfer students who have not yet applied. Click here to schedule the transfer selection. Ask for help if you need it! Contact your transfer guidance counsellor for more information and specific questions. We're here to guide you through your transfer, so don't hesitate to leverage our expertise. Each transfer student brings a unique background and educational experience to the table, so we look forward to getting to know you and developing your individual transfer plan. Start planning. Check out our selection times and build yourself a search calendar to track the application timeline. Keep in place to remember that we need to see your final grades in all pre-courses before making a final selection decision! Come on, let's go! When you're done, it's time to fill out the application and send all the necessary materials! You can apply for entry from our website and use the CU Boulder Transfer Application. Make sure that all the colleges or universities where you have completed courses, as well as the transcript of credit for the high school you graduated from (or most recently attended high school for GED employees). Your application is not complete without each of these transcripts. We hope that you will take these steps and complete the transfer process. It's never too early to start getting ready to apply. Keep in mind that your transfer instructor is eager to help with any questions you may have. Our goal as a transfer admissions team is to make your transfer process as transparent as possible. We want to give you as much information as possible during the process so that you can make the best decision for your future. Good luck, and we hope to see you on campus soon!
