

Dear Possibility Manager,

If you speak out, you become visible. Being visible makes you a potential target for projections, expectations, jealousies, vengeance, even abuse. So many of us survive behind our skills for staying invisible. The idea of building an inner structure capable of maintaining commitments where we become visible is inconceivably scary.

You might think that commitment comes from will power... but how has that been working for you? Probably not so well...

Committing to cause change usually looks like standing at a megaphone and shouting at a crowd of people who may or may not understand to some degree for a short time what you are saying. Usually they are in the crowd for mixed purposes (such as flirting, vandalism, argument, etc.) and anyway, do not have an inner structure strong enough to make commitments to your vision. The crowd consumes what you offer and scatters.

We suspect that you cause change in a less-organized more-organic fashion through your one-on-one or small group interactions. Each person you empower with an Emotional Healing Process, a distinction, a book or film recommendation, a vacuum listening question, or an invitation to your WorkTalk, returns to their lives with the experience you provided for them. If they were fed by what you offered, then they may search for more of that kind of experience. Suddenly they are on the Path. You have caused a ripple in the morphogenetic field of the human race.

As your ripples go out into the world, they naturally combine with the ripples that Possibility Managers and other Edgeworkers are making. These ripples randomly interact with each other (it looks random, but is likely orchestrated by E.C.C.O. at work, creating beneficial coincidences...). Somehow the general human awareness miraculously changes. When a bunch of little waves add upon each other, a transformational tsunami can suddenly arise. This kind of personal evolution is sustainable. When you learn to replace yourself, evolution becomes regenerative.

Can you remember before 'Yoga' was a household word? Or yogurt? Or kombucha? It was not so long ago that if you said, "I am going to Yoga class," people would ask, "What is that? Some new kind of Chinese food?" Today, any town not offering Yoga classes at its community center is behind the times. The children of the first Yoga class participants in the 1960s are already becoming Yoga teachers!

New awareness sprouts just beyond the edges of modern culture's thought limits and traditions. Possibility Management is one of those. Imagine walking through the center of your village – a pedestrian zone, no cars allowed, or disposables – and instead of shoe shops, jewelry shops, watch shops, Starbucks, and clothing shops, this shopping zone offers extremely engaging and entertaining nonmaterial value shops: Rage Club, Fear Club, Intimacy Café, Possibility Coaching, 5 Body Scanning, Feelings Practitioners, Technopenuriaphobia Healing, Possibility Team, on and on, The Menu keeps growing. This is what we are creating together. Thank you for doing your part.

One nonmaterial value we want to share with you is articles written by Possibility Managers. It is a challenge to heal from school enough to risk writing articles, especially writing about what has never been studied in school. This is a personal breakthrough of massive proportions! We are so happy to celebrate courageous beings writing articles, such as these random samplings:

What is YOUR attitude towards CHOICE?

The English and Portuguese language “makes” a choice.

The Spanish “takes” a choice.

The German “hits” a choice...

Do you know (deeply in your cells) that you can always choose?

Do you understand some crucial mechanics around choice?

Do you take responsibility for how and what you (can) choose?

Do you take responsibility for how you deal with the result of your choices?

If so: Great! Let's inquire and learn and deepen it!

If not: Choice makes all the difference in (enjoying) life! So, let's inquire and learn and deepen it!
