Defeat Lawrence Check Out My Bloodborne Platinum Trophy Review for my thoughts on the game, and for understanding what it was like to earn a platinum trophy. Bloodborne is a hardcore RPG from Devil's Minds on from software similar to Dark Souls. You play as a newly appointed hunter who wakes up in the Gothic city of Jarram. However, instead of finding friendly citizens living their daily lives, elditch's rabid beasts and horrors haunt the streets. It's up to you to relive the night and discover a lot of Yharnam's disturbing secrets. Bloodborne is like Dark Souls in many ways, but the fight is faster and rewards aggressive gameplay. You won't find a block mechanic here, instead the fight is based almost entirely on dodging, parrying and quick attacking before retreating to a safer distance. Each weapon has a 2nd form activated by clicking, which can really open up your attack combos and offer you a little more reach and praise melee gun gun. This gun is not actually used to deal with damage, as it is a tool to stun enemies and fend off attacks leaving them open to an endlessly satisfying and brutal Visceral attack. Just like Dark Souls, Bloodborne is all about fighting bosses, of whom there are quite a few. You can absolutely board this game without ever killing the enemy, except for the bosses, and reach level 100 just picking up each coolly item using them and then leveling up every time you Dream Hunter (just watch some of the platinum speedruns on YouTube). However, I would advise you to fight the enemies and pick up the pick one point you encounter. Phase 1 - Defeat each boss and collect all the weapons and tools until the final boss. Your absolute first goal should be to get used to the fight in Bloodborne. If you are from Sekiro, then you will notice that the fight is much slower and you may have a false sense of confidence, but have not deceived it. Enemies in Bloodborne can hit very hard and if you try to rush them too much, you will be caught off guard and punished. If you're from Dark Souls, then I'm told that the fight is similar, only a little faster, so play it safe, but try to be a little more aggressive than you would normally be in Dark Souls. Fortunately, the first two bosses, Cleric Beast and Father Gascoigne, are excellent to handle the fight. Cleric Beast is a big beast as a (spirit) boss and will help you master dodging. Father Gascoigne is a human boss and much harder than cleric the beast, but he will teach you how to parry and execute visceral attacks if you fight him properly- there are a few simple cheeses you can use against him, but it's much better if you fight him as the game intends. After these two bosses, you have to start focusing on collecting weapons and tools (there are weapons inside the sick Loran Chalice Dungeon so you won't be able to get them all at this stage) dotted around the world. You should also focus on upgrading one weapon to the maximum level of No 10. I would recommend using a Hunter saw as given to you in the beginning, it's fast, does a lot of damage, and has a combo that staggers almost all enemies. Here is a list of all weapons and tools and their location. The only thing you really need to keep in mind is the collected 3 umbilical cords. They are easy to miss and as far as I can remember, the game never makes a point of letting you know you need them. Here's a quick guide to their whereabouts. Just keep exploring and defeating the bosses, and eventually you have to meet a boss named Ebrietas, the daughter of Cosmos. This boss is the ultimate boss you have to kill before you can reach the ending so kill her and return to the hunter's dream but don't talk to Herman yet. We need to make some dungeon bowls. Phase 2 - Complete the Preset Dungeon Bowl and Kill the Blood Bowl Dungeons is randomly generated and quite difficult. However, we only need to complete pre-installed dungeons that are not randomly generated, and your progress in them is transferred to each NG, and their complexity does not increase. This is fine if you want to split the whole guide into 3 or more passing and tackle the dungeon bows a bit each time. However, if you want to do it all in one passage then ignore Herman at the moment and dive straight in. there are 5 dungeons you need to complete and there are items that you need to find each of them in order to start the next dungeon. 1. Pthumeru Chalice Dungeon You will get a bowl for this dungeon by defeating the Blood Starved Beast, and you will need x2 Ritual Blood (1) and 1000 Echoes of Blood to start this dungeon. 2. Central Pthumeru Chalice Dungeon You will get a bowl for this dungeon by defeating the guard dog boss of the Old Lords from the previous dungeon, and you will need x6 Ritual Blood (2), which you can find in the previous dungeon, and 1800 Echoes of Blood to start this dungeon. 3. Lower Pthumeru Chalice Dungeon You will get a bowl for this dungeon by defeating the descendant of Ptumerium from the previous dungeon, and you will need x9 Ritual Blood (3) - which can be found in the previous dungeon- and 3200 Echoes of Blood to start this dungeon. 4. Sick Laurent Bowl Dungeon You will get a bowl for this dungeon by defeating the Almonds, and you need x9 Ritual Blood (4) - which can be found in the previous dungeon, and 5500 Echoes of Blood to start this dungeon. Don't forget to find the Beast Claw weapon in this dungeon. 5. Desecrated Dungeon Bowl You will get a bowl for this dungeon by defeating the Bloodletting Beast from the previous dungeon, and you will need x9 Ritual Blood (4) - x2 Bastard Laurent - x22 Arcane Haze, which can be found in the previous dungeon. The haze can be extracted inside the hunter's dream in the same place where you upgrade the weapon, and 5500 echoes of blood to start this dungeon. This dungeon is cursed and will reduce your bar health to half. 5. Great Pthumeru Ihyll Chalice Dungeon You will get a bowl for this dungeon by defeating the amygdala (e.g. 2) from the previous dungeon, and you will need x9 Ritual Blood (5) - x4 Red Jelly - x25 Arcane Haze - x1 Living String-Ritual Blood (5) can be found in the previous dungeon. In the lecture hall of the 1st floor is Red Jelly. The arcane is extracted in the Hunter's dream. Living String can only be acquired by killing Mensis's brain and 11,500 blood echoes to start this prologue dungeon.s and buckle up to a tough fight. At the end of the Great Ptumera Ihill Dungeon you will find the Ptmeria queen. It's not as tough as the last few bosses you've fought in the Dungeon Bowl, however, it's probably for the best if you make sure you have high blood resistance, fully upgraded weapons, and being above level 100 to make things easier. Phase 3 - Purchase all three endings after you've defeated the Blood queen from the last Chalice dungeon, save your game and download your save file to PS or USB. Go talk to Gerhman and talk to him. At the end of the day he has to ask you a question. Choose To Accept and Watch cutscene. Download the save file and talk to Herman again. This time choose To refuse, defeat Herman and watch cutscene play. Download the file but before talking to Gerhman, Gerhman, All 3 umbilical cords first. Go talk to Gerhman and choose Rejection. Defeat him again and you will face the real final boss (he is not too hard). Defeat him and watch the final. Phase 4 - PlatGet! If you followed this guide, then you should have unlocked the platinum trophy as soon as you saw the last of the three endings.
