If you're new to bridging, you probably don't know that there's more than one bidding system. There are actually many bidding systems but the two most widely used, especially by people who study bridges, are the American-style Five Card Majors (SAYC) and the British Standard English (ACOL). As a rough guide: if you live in the UK, Ireland or New Zealand, you're more likely to play bridge Acol with Four Card Majors and Weak No Trump (12-14). If you live in the U.S. and most of the world, you're more likely to play the Five American-style Card Majors with Strong No Trump (15-17). For American-style deals go to www.nofearbridge.com. For British-style deals go to www.nofearbridge.co.uk. The main features of each system are shown below. You should be able to identify which site you need.
