Because the etiology of diabetic nephropathy has not yet been fully elucidated, various theories have been proposed. The importance of lipid metabolism in diabetes has been postulated as a possible etiologic factor. Recent studies have revealed that the lipid profile including serum cholesterol level is closely related to the occurrence and progression of diabetic nephropathy. Hyperlipidemia, especially elevation of serum triglyceride level, is a well recognized risk factor for diabetic nephropathy. In this review, we will examine the relationship between lipid metabolism and diabetic nephropathy, focusing on hyperlipidemia. 520fdb1ae7
