

Stephen N. Keith, MD, MSPH

Dr. Keith joined Syneos Health, a global clinical research organization, as Medical Director in 2018. Syneos coordinates clinical trials for pharmaceutical, biotech, and medical device companies, and also provides consulting and implementation services related to commercialization and business development. He also serves as the Chief Business Development and Medical Officer for Evanston Technology Partners (ETP). As a Minority Business Enterprise, ETP markets integrative technologies to strengthen cyber security, along with interface/integration, and cloud communication products and services developed by our partner companies to a range of for-profit businesses and other organizations.

From 2015 until 2018, Dr. Keith was the CEO of Vivacelle Bio, Inc., a private company that is developing a novel and proprietary intravenous fluid for correction of hypotension and hypovolemia due to fluid or blood loss. From 2012 until early 2015 Dr. Keith served as a Site Director for WellStreet Urgent Care in Atlanta, Georgia. Previously, he held the position of CEO of the American College of Clinical Pharmacology from 2009 to 2012. From 2006 until 2009, Dr. Keith served as President and Chief Operating Officer of Panacea Pharmaceuticals, Inc., and from 2003 until 2006, Dr. Keith was a Managing Director of Glocap Advisors, an investment bank based in New York, and a Senior Consultant with the Biologics Consulting Group. During 2002-2003, Dr. Keith was a General Partner with Emerging Technology Partners, an early-stage life sciences venture capital firm in Maryland. Just prior to joining Emerging Technology Partners, he held the position of President and Chief Operating Officer, Antex Biologics Inc. From 1995 to 2000, Dr. Keith served as Vice President, Marketing and Sales, at North American Vaccine, Inc. From 1990 to 1995, Dr. Keith held various positions at Merck & Co., Inc., including Senior Director, Health Care Delivery Policy in Corporate Public Affairs, Senior Customer Manager in the U.S. Human Health Division, and Senior Director, Health Strategies, in the Merck-Medco Managed Care Division.

Dr. Keith serves as a member of the Boards of Directors of National Medical Fellowships, and Community Health Charities.

Dr. Keith completed his undergraduate work at Amherst College, Amherst, Massachusetts, in 1973, and he received the M.D. degree from the University of Illinois in 1977. Dr. Keith completed a three-year residency in Pediatrics at the University of California, Los Angeles, Center for the Health Sciences in 1980. From 1980 to 1982, he was a Robert Wood Johnson Foundation Clinical Scholar at UCLA, during which time he received a Masters in Science in Public Health from UCLA. From 1982 to 1987, Dr. Keith served on the faculty of the Charles Drew Medical School and the UCLA School of Medicine in the Department of Pediatrics. From 1987 to 1990, Dr. Keith served as a Health Policy Advisor to the U.S. Senate Committee on Labor and Human Resources, under Senator Edward M. Kennedy.

Dr. Keith is a Fellow of the Academy of Pediatrics and a Diplomate of the American Board of Pediatrics.