3. What Bridge-House is and what it is not
Bridge-House are living laboratories of radical research that focus on experimentation, invention and creative collaboration. For true collaboration and invention to occur, intimacy is happening. If you are serious about intimacy, you must be serious about exploring your sensitivity and reaching the bottom. If you are serious about invention, you have to be serious about being considered crazy, about looking ugly, about people falling out of your life and about befriending your fear. If you're serious about Transformation, you are to be serious about Accountability and become the owner of your unconscious survival behaviors.
