Whenever the driver binds to the core crystal, there is a random chance that the driver will get a rare blade. Since February 28 days and there are 28 non-history blades, let's dedicate a day to discuss each blade. The purpose of these discussions is to help new players on the strengths of each blade and and and which driver is compatible with them. The focus of the discussion aspects will be blade performance both in combat and on the field, although other topics such as design and personality are free to discuss as well. If I happen to make a mistake, please feel free to correct me so I can update the OP. Note that this is a series where the format can change. Note that these discussions may include spoilers about the special abilities of a particular character and the individual side of each rare blade. Browse on your own. Day 9: Floren, tempting charmer. It is the blade of the Earth HLR and uses bitball in combat. After 2 days dude, we finally have another girl. Floren is introduced as mischievous and manipulative towards the driver, using her mercy as a vehicle to cheat. However, once you get to know Floren, you will learn that she is very in tune with nature, and is jealous that the blades are not as natural as humans, monsters, and littlepons. This characteristic is very similar to Dahlia, so I think they get along very well. (By the way, does anyone know if they have any banter together?) By the way, Floren's Japanese name, Hotaru, means firefly. Not that you care, but now you know. In any case, apart from toying with the hearts of fools, Floren enjoys vegetables and art, with Leaf-Weave capes and snow dumplings being her favorites. It can be obtained by opening a random core crystal. Blade SpecialsLavender Drive - This will increase the damage to your running enemies by at least 100%. I don't find this too useful, as the running time doesn't last long. To increase to levels 2 and 3, use this special and perform driver combo accordingly. Nia is the only person who has access to a bitball driver combo, but all Floren needs to align is just witness. For level 4, give it a snowy dumpling to level it. Liliium Dance- When the hit landed, it will repair at least 30% of the damage done to the batch. This is very useful for HLR because it allows them to heal without using art. Use this special level up to 2 and 5, a chain attack for Level 3, and a driver combo for level 4.Physalis Solution- generates HP potion upon contact. At least a 60% chance of spawning 2. It's also great for HLR. Usually only Knuckles HLRs can do this (and more), but it can be great special for healing. Perform a blade combo to level it out, except for Level 3 where you need to give it some art. Blade Arts: Floren has Debuff Cancel and Back Attack up. Debuff Cancellation is great because you don't want your HLRs to get unnecessary damage. Back Attack Up increases back damage, so if not controlled by AI, can be nice. While the exit Floren is not exactly impressive because Floren is an HLR, not an ATK blade. Battle SkillsThe Coming of Spring- It Increases the Effectiveness of The Healing Party at least 15% when at Max Affinity. This is great for HLR, so Floren will be able to fix your command easily. Raise an affinity in battle to level it. Blossomfall-it will restore at least 60% hp batch when the driver becomes incapacitated. Not very cool since you HLR is usually the last person to fall off and ideally you don't want people getting KO'ed on you. Collect vegetables at level 2, then just dodge attacks. White lilies- Reduce agro by at least 10%. This helps keep the target off the back of your HLR. This can be useful if Floren is with a player's character, but on the npc, I don't see it useful. Collect HP potions to align this, except for the last level when you need to revive incapacitated allies. Field Skills: Floren has botany, earthy skill and beguiling charms, which is exclusive to Floren. Botany helps with feeding and mercor missions, so that's a plus. Land craftsmanship is also great for merck missions and has its niche like all other craftsmanship. Finally, Beguiling Charms doesn't see much use outside of her blade quest, but it's nice to see how normal civilians react to Floren, so it's great to see how the text changes when Floren is engaged, which goes to show how well the detail of this attribute. Aux Cores: Floren is a bitball HLR, so any cores that increase the ether will be great. Some defensive cores can also work if you want to stay safe sure.Compatible Drivers: Like Dahlia, bitballs don't have much utility for anyone other than Nia. Nia has a break with the bitballs, so she'll most likely start a driver combo. The zick is also decent with bitballs, because of his stats as physical friendly and ether friendly. Although he doesn't have a driver combo. Floren is also the elementary of Earth, so you get much better utility from Floren if the Torah is not in your fighting party. In addition, a certain blade you get from a spider can also pose a problem if they deal with Nia.My verdict: I really like Floren. I like his mischievous character and a few asshole-ish qualities. I also like how Floren has a softer side, and how important nature is to it. It's a shame that bitballs are so niche because there's not much driver-free action you have with it. Otherwise, he's good. Solid blade with a solid character. Besides, he looks like he's roller skating Alrest.So what are you doing on that blade? Do they match your style or cramp it?
